Dear Peter

Accreditation of the ROSE Product Stewardship Scheme under the Waste Minimisation Act 2008

I am delighted to inform you that I have decided to accredit ROSE as a product stewardship scheme again under section 15 of the Waste Minimisation Act 2008.

I would like to congratulate Fulton Hogan, Salters Cartage and Petroleum Services for their huge effort in establishing one of our first product stewardship schemes and making it a success. I am particularly pleased with the number of businesses involved and your efforts to reprocess oil containers and bring innovation to reusing oils.

It is great to hear that your scheme operates throughout New Zealand and has such a large range of participants. The objectives you have set for ROSE over the next seven years are ambitious and well considered. I am looking forward to seeing your progress.

Starting a product stewardship programme takes initiative and leadership. To continue and improve as your businesses have done takes strong commitment from all involved. It is encouraging that we have strong leaders such as yourselves setting an example for others to follow.

I would like to make a public announcement about the ROSE accreditation for another term of seven years. Officials from the Ministry for the Environment will contact you shortly to discuss this. Following the announcement, I encourage you to continue promoting your scheme, and have approved the following text for your publications:

"The ROSE Product Stewardship Scheme was accredited by the Associate Minister for the Environment Hon Eugenie Sage under the Waste Minimisation Act 2008 on 2018".

Yours sincerely,
